Dear friends,

I write to encourage you not to change the net metering rates for residential solar. Last year my family and I invested $20,000 in rooftop solar in reliance upon net metering which gives us some hope of economically justifying our investment over about 10 to 12 years. Rooftop solar is good for the community and for the power production system and should be encouraged. Those who have already invested should not be undercut. Thanks for taking our view into consideration.

Sincerely,

Scott Carter
