Re: Docket No. E-100, Sub 137

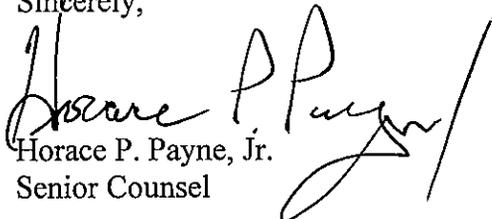

Dear Ms. Mount:

Enclosed is an Affidavit of Publication which will serve as proof of publication of the Public Notice as required in ordering paragraph 2 of the Commission's March 6, 2014 Order Scheduling Public Hearing on 2013 IRP Annual Update Reports and 2013 REPS Compliance Plans in the above-referenced case.

Pursuant to the instructions in ordering paragraph 2, the notices were published in newspapers having general circulation in Dominion North Carolina Power's service area once a week for two consecutive weeks beginning with the week of March 17, 2014. Copies of tear sheets from each of the newspapers in which the public notice ran are also enclosed.

If you have any questions regarding this matter, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Horace P. Payne, Jr.
Senior Counsel

Postponed NPS program series now set this month

The National Park Service's "Now Your Park" citizen science program series continues with upcoming presentations in March.

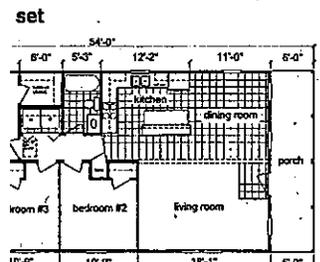

With a rescheduling of January's "wed-out" presentation, Dr. Nathan Hall, a postdoctoral research associate at the University of North Carolina Institute of Marine Sciences, will discuss recent range expansion of "brown tide" forming red algae that have decimated fish stocks, sea grass habitats, and the food webs of several United States estuaries.

The bloom distribution of the two species appears to be shifting in on North Carolina, with species from the north and south.

His presentation will be given Wednesday, March 26, 7 p.m. at the Ocracoke Community Center on Thursday, March 27 at 7 p.m. at the Fessenden Center in Beaufort.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON 2013
IRP ANNUAL UPDATE REPORTS AND
2013 REPS COMPLIANCE PLANS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the North Carolina Utilities Commission (Commission) has scheduled a public hearing in conjunction with the Commission's review and evaluation of integrated resource planning (IRP) in North Carolina. The purpose of the review and evaluation is to ensure that each regulated electric utility operating in North Carolina is developing reliable projections of the long-range demands for electricity in its service area and is developing a combination of reliable resource options for meeting the anticipated demands in a cost-effective manner. IRP is intended to identify those electric resource options which can be obtained at least cost to ratepayers in North Carolina consistent with adequate, reliable electric service. IRP considers conservation, efficiency, load management and other demand-side program alternatives in the selection of resource options. Commission Rule R8-60 requires that each of the electric utilities furnish the Commission with a biennial report in even-numbered years that contains the specific information set out in that Commission Rule. In odd-numbered years, each of the electric utilities must file an annual report updating its most recently filed biennial report. In addition, electric power suppliers are required to include their plans for meeting customer electric needs via renewable energy resources and energy efficiency programs by submitting a Renewable Energy and Energy Efficiency Portfolio Standard compliance plan (REPS compliance plan) as part of the IRP filing.

During the public hearing to be held in this docket, the Commission will receive testimony from nonexpert public witnesses with respect to the most current annual update IRP reports and REPS compliance plans filed in 2013 by Duke Energy Progress, Inc.; Duke Energy Carolinas, LLC; and Virginia Electric and Power Company, d/b/a Dominion North Carolina Power.

A night hearing for the convenience of public witnesses and solely for the purpose of taking nonexpert public witness testimony is hereby scheduled as follows:
Raleigh: 7:00 p.m., on Monday, April 28, 2014, in Commission Hearing Room 2115, Dobbs Building, 430 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina.

Anyone wishing to review the IRPs and REPS compliance plans filed by the utilities may do so either at the Commission's website, www.ncuc.net, by selecting the Dockets tab and entering Docket No. E-100 Sub 137, or at the Office of the Chief Clerk of the Commission, Dobbs Building, 430 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina. Upon request, the Chief Clerk will place copies of the IRPs, compliance plans and any other documents filed in this proceeding in centrally-located public libraries where they may be copied without prohibition. Such a request may be made by writing to the Chief Clerk, North Carolina Utilities Commission, 4325 Mail Service Center, Raleigh, North Carolina 27699-4325, and providing the name and address of the library to which the information is to be mailed.

Persons desiring to present testimony for the record should appear at the public hearing. Persons desiring to send written statements to inform the Commission of their positions in the matter shall address their statements to:

Charm is an 8-week-old puppy. She is one of a litter of five. Charm and her litter mates are half Walker hound and half Labrador retriever. The pups have had their first shots and have been dewormed.

Bridget is a Labrador retriever mix. She is a young female ready and able to learn commands. Bridget is accustomed to children and shows much love and respect towards them. She is strong, healthy and has tested negative for heartworms.

CoCo is a lovely adult female. She is a variety of mixes, possibly hound and boxer. CoCo does well on a leash, enjoys being with people, and gets along with other dogs. CoCo is heartworm negative. Her adoption fee, as well as all of that of all the other shelter animals, includes spaying, basic shots, and a microchip.

Little Betty is a red and white medium-sized girl. Her competitiveness makes her very easy to handle. Betty gets along with other dogs. For information about adopting CoCo or other homeless animals, visit the Tid-Country Animal Center and Adoption Center on Icaria Road in Tyner, or contact the shelter at 221-8514.

VA expands housing grant eligibility for ALS

From staff reports

Veterans and active-duty military personnel with service-connected amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS), commonly known as Lou Gehrig's disease, are now presumed medically eligible for grants up to almost $63,000 to adapt their homes, the Department of Veterans Affairs announced last week.

"VA is committed to eliminating barriers that keep veterans and service members from the benefits they have earned," said Secretary of Veterans Affairs Eric K. Shinewald. "This change will make it easier for some of our most severely injured veterans to receive speedy assistance adapting their homes to their unique needs."

The change affects recipients of VA's specially adapted housing grants, which help pay for the costs for building, buying or repairing a home, up to a maximum of $67,500.

Under the change, veterans and service members with service-connected ALS will be deemed medically eligible for the maximum grant. The program provides grants to eligible service-connected disabled veterans and service members to construct or modify a home to meet their unique housing needs. Grants are also available to help eligible individuals purchase adapted homes or pay down mortgages on homes that are already adapted.

will save approximately 12 months in the overall process of a Specially Adapted Housing grant.

"This change automates and shortens our SAH grant delivery process for veterans and service members living with ALS," said Under-Secretary for Benefits Allison A. Hickey. "SAH is an important benefit, giving beneficiaries the ability to adapt their homes and create a barrier-free living environment—expanding their independence in their own homes."

In 2009, VA established a presumption of service connection for ALS for any veteran who develops the disease at any time after separation from service, making them eligible for monthly VA disability compensation benefits. VA amended its disability regulations in January 2012 to assign a 100 percent disability evaluation for any veteran who has service-connected ALS.

ALS is a rapidly progressing, totally debilitating, and irreversible motor neuron disease that results in muscle weakness, leading to a wide range of serious disabilities, including impaired mobility. VA adapted its rules so veterans with service-connected ALS no longer have to file multiple requests with VA for increased benefits as their condition progresses.

'Veteran' designation now available on driver's license

From staff reports

Beginning last week, grateful North Carolina military veterans are able to carry the designation "VETERAN" on their driver's licenses and identification cards.

Thanks to a law passed by the General Assembly, veterans who have been honorably discharged from the U.S.

Armed Forces who present their DD214 discharge form can apply at a driver's license office for the new designation.

"We are happy to have this new program underway," said State Highway Commissioner Kelly Thomas. "If you're a vet, we hope you'll take advantage of this new opportunity to carry your record of service and your state's appreciation with you everywhere you go."

Thomas, N.C. Transportation Secretary Rudy Tate, legislative members, and representatives of the state's Military Veterans Office and the N.C. Retail Merchants Association kicked off the launch of the new "VETERAN" designation today at the N.C. Museum of History. Military veterans requested the designation to assist them in obtaining military discounts from a wide variety of retailers and service providers without having to show their military discharge form.

Our monthly food distribution will need to be TEMPORARILY MOVED FOR THIS MONTH to the John A Holmes High School Student Parking Lot 600 Woodard St, Edenton due to construction, demolition and lighting conditions in our parking lot.

FOOD DISTRIBUTION IS THURSDAY, MARCH 27TH 5:00 - 7:00 P.M.

THE LOT WILL OPEN AT 4:45. PLEASE NO EARLY ARRIVALS.

Lung cancer screening is recommended for people at risk

Dear Dr. K: I'm a longtime smoker. Do I need to be screened for lung cancer even if I don't have any symptoms?

Dear Reader: Until recently, my answer would have been "no." In the not-too-distant past, screening of people without symptoms—even smokers who were at high risk—was judged useless for lung cancer.

That's because screening for lung cancer involved using standard chest X-rays, and they produced too many "false positive" results: They identified "spots" in the lungs that were harmless. And they also produced too many "false negative" results: They failed to find small, early and potentially curable cancers. When screening chest X-rays found lung cancer, it was big and old enough that it usually already was incurable.

Computed tomography (CT) scans of the lungs, however, take much clearer pictures than standard chest X-rays. Studies in recent years have shown that when people are at high risk for developing lung cancer, CT scans find many more small, early and potentially curable lung cancers—with an acceptable number of "false positive" results. Most important, the evidence is that current types of CT do not just find cancers early; they also save lives among people who are at high risk for getting lung cancer.

After advising for many years against screening for lung cancer (with standard chest X-rays or other techniques), the U.S. Preventive Services Task Force (USPSTF) reviewed the latest studies. It now recommends yearly tests for people at high risk for lung cancer. The USPSTF is a group of experts in evaluating scientific studies and last 15 years.

Any kind of X-ray—and CT scans use X-rays—involves radiation. Fortunately, the CT scanners that are used to screen for lung cancer involve relatively little radiation. Most experts agree that the radiation risks in preventive medicine.

Specifically, the USPSTF recommends annual, low-dose computed tomography (CT) scans of the lungs for high-risk adults ages 55 to 79. You are considered high-risk if you have smoked at least 30 "pack-years." This could be 30 years of smoking one pack a day, 15 years at two packs a day, or other equivalent combinations. Screening is recommended for anyone in this group who is a current smoker or has quit in the past.

When it comes to lung cancer, however, prevention remains even more important than early detection. And the biggest change you can make to prevent lung cancer is not to smoke. If you smoke now, commit to quit.

Quitting strategies include:

- Behavior programs, such as one-on-one counseling and support groups.
- Nicotine replacement, available in many forms including skin patches, chewing gum, lozenges, nasal spray or inhalers.
- Quit-smoking medications such as varenicline (Chantrel) and bupropion (Zyban).
- Hypnosis, acupuncture and other alternative treatments.

If you fall into the USPSTF high-risk categories, talk to your doctor.

Husband can't erase wife's journal writing about affair

Dear Abby: I have been married almost 20 years. Eight years ago my wife began an emotional affair with a co-worker. It lasted a year, until he left the company. Although they never had sex, they did have some physical contact that most people would consider inappropriate, and my wife considered ending our marriage because of the feelings she had for him. She now says the episode was a huge mistake and she loves me more than ever.

The problem is, she wrote many entries about him in a journal. I know she kept writing about him several years after they lost contact, including saying that she loved him more than a year after he'd left.

I want my wife to remove the portions of the journal pertaining to this guy. She doesn't want to. I'm still hurling from this and am considering counseling, but for now, what do you think? Should she get rid of the journal?—Considering Counseling

Dear Considering: Because you are still hurting seven years after the fact, stop "considering" counseling and get it NOW.

If your wife is a serious journal writer—and many people are—that she would want her writings to remain intact in spite of the fact they reflect her emotional affair is not unusual. If that's the case, instead of insisting she edit or destroy her journal, my advice is to stop reading it.

Dear Abby: I'm a 47-year-old man who was single until seven years ago. Then I met "Maggie," the most wonderful woman I had ever known. She wasn't the hot-toy-toy one-nighter type I was used to. She was a real woman who fulfilled everything

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

I had ever dreamed of (including bringing a wonderful 4-year-old little girl into my life). The biological father is out of the picture. Maggie had wrestled with some health issues—noting sex until last April, when she had surgery. Complications set in, and I lost the only person who ever mattered, aside from our little girl.

My question is, since we were never married, how do I refer to Maggie when relating what happened? I am in the process of adopting her daughter and explanations to strangers are tough. ("Wow, you're taking on a child when you don't HAVE to?") How do I respond to these remarks? I know this is a multi-part question, but I have so many unanswered questions lately, I figured I'd ask you for an opinion.—Grieving Missouri

Dear Grieving: Although you and Maggie weren't legally married, you were a couple for some time. I'm very sorry for your loss. It would be accurate to refer to her as your late significant other, your partner or longtime girlfriend.

I would like to compliment you for stepping up to care for the girl when her biological father did not. And I do have suggestions for how to respond to anyone insensitive enough to ask why you would "take on" a child you didn't "have to."

The first would be to ignore the question. The second would be to avoid such a person in the future, and the third would be to reply, "I love her like a daughter, want to make sure she's secure and provided for, and THAT'S why I'm doing it."

out in the field, and wait for hours before workers are able to see them.

They give them check ups and offer advice and general care that will hopefully help them stay healthy.

"If someone needs immediate help we take them," says Ortiz.

They also take these mobile clinics to the camps. These camps are located around the region and provide the workers with the most basic needs such as a place to lay their heads and a shower.

Although there are a few camps that seem OK, the conditions overall are "very bad."

The camps are typically off the beaten path, far from basic services. The workers have no transportation and sometimes going to a local store is impossible.

Ortiz says there have been many times that workers have begged her to take them into town.

Workers are also at the mercy of the weather. Their pay depends upon what they pick and if they are rained out, there is no money for them.

Ortiz says in those instances they work with the Food Bank to get these workers food.

The workers' pay is also dependent upon the crew leader. The crew leader is paid a flat sum by the farming operation and in turn must use a portion of that money to pay the workers.

The workers are not well paid and life is hard. Ortiz says she and her staff have heard varied stories about the lack of fair pay, but her organization is not here to take sides, she says. They are here to offer health aid to these men and women.

The community also pitches in, she says. One thing that aids these people are small toiletry kits. Area churches often make these kits to be distributed among the workers.

Overall, Ortiz says these people go unnoticed and she believes we should be paying more attention to them. They are providing a needed service, picking the food that we will eat at home. And they do it without much complaining, grateful to have a job.

If you would like more information about the area's farm workers and how you can help them, you can contact Ortiz at 252-384-2651.

Working with farm machinery and in fields where pesticides are being sprayed can be dangerous for farm workers. Gateway Community Health workers offer these migrant farmers health and safety information in an effort to keep them safe while picking vegetables and fruit.

 NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the North Carolina Utilities Commission (Commission) has scheduled a public hearing in conjunction with the Commission's review and evaluation of integrated resource planning (IRP) in North Carolina. The purpose of the review and evaluation is to ensure that each regulated electric utility operating in North Carolina is developing reliable projections of the long-range demands for electricity in its service area and is developing a combination of reliable resource options for meeting the anticipated demands in a cost-effective manner. IRP is intended to identify those electric resource options which can be obtained at least cost to ratepayers in North Carolina consistent with adequate, reliable electric service. IRP considers conservation, efficiency, load management and other demand-side program alternatives in the selection of resource options. Commission Rule 75-60 requires that each of the electric utilities furnish the Commission with a biennial report in even-numbered years that contains the specific information set out in that Commission Rule. In odd-numbered years, each of the electric utilities must file an annual report updating its most recently filed biennial report. In addition, electric power suppliers are required to include their plans for meeting customer elastic needs via renewable energy resources and energy efficiency programs by submitting a Renewable Energy and Energy Efficiency Portfolio Standard compliance plan (REPS compliance plan) as part of the IRP filing.

During the public hearing to be held in this docket, the Commission will receive testimony from nonexpert public witnesses with respect to the most current annual update IRP reports and REPS compliance plans filed in 2013 by Duke Energy Progress, Inc.; Duke Energy Carolinas, LLC; and Virginia Electric and Power Company, d/b/a Dominion North Carolina Power.

Farm Bill offers more opportunities for producers

Expands lending to thousands of farmers for beginning and continuing operations

Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack announced increased opportunity for producers as a result of the 2014 Farm Bill.

A fact sheet outlining modifications to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Farm Service Agency (FSA) Farm Loan Programs is available online.

"Our nation's farmers and ranchers are the engine of the rural economy. These improvements to our Farm Loan Programs will help a new generation begin farming and grow existing farm operations," said Secretary Vilsack.

"Today's announcement represents just one part of a series of investments the new Farm Bill makes in the next generation of agriculture, which is critical to economic growth in communities across the country."

The Farm Bill expands lending opportunities for thousands of farmers and ranchers to begin and continue operations, including greater flexibility in determining eligibility, raising loan limits, and emphasizing beginning and socially disadvantaged producers.

Changes that will take effect immediately include:

- Elimination of loan term limits for guaranteed operating loans.
- Modification of the definition of beginning farmer, using the average farm size for the county as a qualifier instead of the median farm size.
- Modification of the Joint Financing Direct Farm Ownership Interest Rate to two percent less than regular Direct Farm Ownership rate, with a floor of 2.5 percent. Previously, the rate was established at 5 percent.
- Increase of the maximum loan amount for Direct Farm Ownership down payments from $225,000 to $300,000.

- Elimination of rural residency requirement for Youth Loans, allowing urban youth to benefit.

- Debt forgiveness on Youth Loans, which will not prevent borrowers from obtaining additional loans from the federal government.

- Increase of the guarantee amount on Conservation Loans from 75 to 80 percent and 90 percent for socially disadvantaged borrowers and beginning farmers.

"Microloans will not count toward loan term limits for veterans and beginning farmers.

Additional modifications must be implemented through the rulemaking process. Visit the FSA Farm Bill website for detailed information and updates to farm loan programs.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON 2013
IRP ANNUAL UPDATE REPORTS AND
2013 REPS COMPLIANCE PLANS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the North Carolina Utilities Commission (Commission) has scheduled a public hearing in conjunction with the Commission's review and evaluation of integrated resource plans (IRP) in North Carolina. The purpose of the review and evaluation is to ensure that each regulated electric utility operating in North Carolina is developing reliable projections of the long-range demands for electricity in its service area and is developing a combination of reliable resource options for meeting the anticipated demands in a cost-effective manner. IRP is intended to identify those electric resource options which can be obtained at least cost to ratepayers in North Carolina consistent with adequate, reliable electric service. IRP considers conservation, efficiency, load management and other demand-side program alternatives in the selection of resource options. Commission Rule RB-60 requires that each of the electric utilities furnish the Commission with a biennial report in even-numbered years that contains the specific information set forth in the Commission Rule. In odd-numbered years, each of the electric utilities must file an annual report updating its most recently filed biennial report. In addition, electric power suppliers are required to include their plans for meeting customer electric needs via renewable energy resources and energy efficiency programs by submitting a Renewable Energy and Energy Efficiency Portfolio Standard compliance plan (REPS compliance plan) as part of the IRP filing.

During the public hearing to be held in this docket, the Commission will receive testimony from nonexpert public witnesses with respect to the most current annual update IRP reports and REPS compliance plans filed in 2013 by Duke Energy Progress, Inc., Duke Energy Carolinas, LLC, and Virginia Electric and Power Company, d/b/a Dominion North Carolina Power.

A night hearing for the convenience of public witnesses and solely for the purpose of taking nonexpert public witness testimony is hereby scheduled as follows:

Raleigh: 7:00 p.m., on Monday, April 28, 2014, in Commission Hearing Room 2115, Dobbs Building, 430 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina.

Anyone wishing to review the IRP's and REPS compliance plans filed by the utilities may do so either at the Commission's website, www.ncuc.net, by selecting the Dockets tab and entering Docket No. E-100 Sub 137, or at the Office of the Chief Clerk of the Commission, Dobbs Building, 430 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina. Upon request, the Chief Clerk will place copies of the IRP's, compliance plans and any other documents filed in this proceeding in centrally-located public libraries where they may be copied without prohibition. Such a request may be made by writing to the Chief Clerk, North Carolina Utilities Commission, 4325 Mail Service Center, Raleigh, North Carolina 27699-4325, and providing the name and address of the library to which the information is to be mailed.

Persons desiring to present testimony for the record should appear at the public hearing. Persons desiring to send written statements to inform the Commission of their positions in the matter shall address their statements to:

Tree planting marks kick-off of Extension's 100th anniversary celebration

The Dare County Cooperative Extension held a tree planting on Feb. 14 to mark the kick-off of Extension's 100th anniversary celebration of the signing of the Smith-Lever Act of 1914, which officially created the national Cooperative Extension System and provided funding for outreach endeavors at the Land-Grant Universities, which in North Carolina are NC State and NCA&T University. The tree was planted at the wellness trail at the Dare County Center in cooperation with the Dare County Center staff and Advisory Board. Dare Commissioners Virginia Tillett and Warren Judge led the tree planting with Bea Basnight and Fred Brumbach of the Dare County Center Advisory Board, Janice Tillett of the Cooperative Extension Advisory Board, Dare Center Director Sandy Scarborough and Dare Cooperative Extension Director Susan Ruiz-Evans. Also joining in the planting were Public Services Director Tim White, Extension Administrative Assistant Donna Hanusik, John Sibunka of the Dare Center Advisory Board, 4-H Extension Agent Katherine Irby, Extension Master Gardener volunteers Jonnie Combs and Kaye Lyerly, and Spencer Gregory of Dare Parks and Rec.

At its March 5 meeting, the Nags Head Board of Commissioners approved a proclamation supporting this year's Relay for Life. The American Cancer Society's annual "signature" fundraising event has raised nearly $5 billion since Dr. Gordon Klatt held the first event in 1985 in Tacoma, WA.

The annual community event "celebrates survivors, remembers those who have lost their battle with cancer and unites our community to fight against a disease that has taken too much from too many."

Symbolizing the realization that "cancer never sleeps," Relay For Life teams camp out

Flood insurance provisions

On Thursday the U.S. Senate gave final congressional approval to the Homeowner Flood Insurance Affordability Act (H.R.3370). The bill passed the Senate by a vote of 72-22. It had previously passed the House and will now head to the President's desk for signature.

The bipartisan legislation includes offsets for the costs of H.R.3370, which would limit annual policy rate increases, force FEMA to certify its mapping methodology and set milestones for FEMA to carry out a flood insurance rate affordability study, among other things.

The legislation significantly rewrites a major overhaul of the flood insurance program that passed almost unanimously in 2012. Those 2012 changes were aimed at weaning hundreds of thousands of homeowners off subsidized rates and required extensive updating of the flood maps used to set premiums.

The White House has indicated that President Obama will sign the measure into law despite earlier administration reservations about a Senate-passed bill that would have delayed implementation of the 2012 law.

The bill would alleviate a provision in the 2012 law that threatens hundreds of thousands of homeowners with huge premium increases under new and updated government flood maps. Their properties were originally built to code but were subsequently found to be at greater flood risk. Such "grandfathered" homeowners currently benefit from below-market rates that are subsidized by other policyholders, and the new legislation would preserve that status and cap premium increases at 18 percent a year. The 2012 reforms required premium increases to actuarially sound rates over five years.

Another provision, eagerly sought by the real estate industry, would allow home sellers to pass taxpayer-subsidized policies on to the people buying their homes instead of requiring purchasers to Martin replaced previous director Elizabeth Spruill last November. Spruill, who lives in Edenton, now serves as the director of the Edenton-Chowan Boys & Girls Club.

Teen Court, Martin said, is a diversion program for juveniles who have committed crimes. They are usually referred by Juvenile Court Counselor and Intake Officer Paul Pollock or one of the School Resource Officers. The offense must be a first offense and a misdemeanor. The juvenile must also admit his guilt and sign a diversion contract agreeing to have no new complaints abide by the rules at home and at school, not use or possess any controlled substances cooperate with the referral to Teen Court and complete the sentence. The case then is diverted from Juvenile Court to Teen Court, where the defendant is represented, prosecuted, judged and sentenced by other students. First Flight High School Media Coordinator Susan McParlane, who is also an attorney, serves as the judge in the Teen Court sessions and a new charge, Pollock added. "I prepare a court report and they can end up going back to juvenile court."

Teen Court is not about guilt or innocence, Martin explained. The student has already admitted his guilt, and it has been determined that diverting his case to Teen Court will be the best course for the student and the community. This is about restorative justice — finding the natural and logical consequence that will help restore this person to good standing within his community.

Successful completion of the program results in a student's record being wiped clean, jurors choose from several options laid out in a "sentencing grid" for Category A, B and C misdemeanors in deciding on a defendant's sentence, which may include hours of community service, doing jury duty, writing an essay or research paper, completing additional education or submitting to a curfew.

Several students told the Sentinel they are interested in pursuing a career in law and appreciate gaining valuable experience through the program. They also said they like the idea of doing something positive for their community and in the fifth grade of officially joining in the seventh grade, and said he became interested in the program when his older brother and sister were participating as attorneys. Smith intended to study law for a long time but has since set his sights on a career in engineering, and considers the program a very valuable experience that has honed many skills he will use in the future.

First Flight Senior Murphy Crank said she has no specific plans, yet, but desires to become an attorney. "Volunteering has meant a lot to me," she said. "It shows that people can learn from their mistakes and change their ways. If you want to go to law school, this gives you a lot of great experience. Even if you don't, it really gives you an opportunity to work on your people skills, speechmaking skills and being able to think on your feet."

McParlane added, "It's excellent in developing presentation skills, critical thinking and problem solving."

making the dozen member trustee board. A 10th non-voting member of the board is comprised of the college's student body president.

McCrory's appointee to fill the 2014 vacancy — and the governor's first — was retired Hertford County Agriculture Extension service agent Byron Simonds, whose address is listed as Murrefreesboro. That made for two gubernatorial appointees from Hertford County, two from Northampton, but none from Bertie.

All the prior appointees were made by then-governor Beverly Perdue.

Meanwhile, at the March meeting of the Bertie Commissioners, Chairman Wallace Perry had inquired of RCCC President, Dr. Michael Elam, about the status of placing a Bertie resident on the college's Board.

Commissioner Ronald D. "Ron" Wesson stated then that when a name was submitted by the Board, that applicant — Wesson himself — was rejected in favor of Simonds and the Bertie Commissioners voiced concern the appointment was of a political nature.

Elam emphasized that he submits the applications, but does not act as a chairman; though he did not name any of them. "Just because you didn't get your way on one recommendation, you should temper your partisan posture," he said in closing.

Wesson made the first response to Terry's remarks. "Bertie County has the second largest group of students who attend Roanoke-Chowan Community College," he began.

"Because of that, this board would like to have a position on that board so that we would know exactly how our students, residents, etc., are made a part of their program."

Wesson further said the recommendation was made specific to McCrory and that the governor's assistant informed the board that the Commission of recommendation has been turned down and that Dr. Elam was told that the person on the board needed to be a Republican.

"We asked for a seat," Wesson asserted. "We didn't say it had to be a Democrat, we didn't say it had to be a Republican. We submitted one name on the application and that was turned down because that person was not a Republican. We never made anything political."

Terry countered that former Governor Perdue, a Democrat, had made the other three RCCC appointments.

"You ought not be blasting the governor in a public domain," he said, adding that he was in agreement with the decision on the appointment being partisan.

Perry said that Terry should make the necessary contacts within the McCrory administration to find his answer about partisan. "We were told that," said Per-

due. "We were told that (partisanship) was the reason."

Harrell reiterated what he'd said earlier: as was published, that if it took getting a Republican on the board, then submit one as long as Bertie received representation.

"I clearly stated that representation on that (RCCC trustee) board is what we need, and we all believe that we do; then if it takes putting a Republican on the board — then, hey — whatever it takes to get our foot in the door to get representation for the citizens of Bertie County is all that matters," Harrell said.

Harrell also pointed out that money was not being withheld from the college because of partisan politics.

"If that were so, you would be right; but that is not the case," Harrell said.

Vice-chairman Charles Smith inquired when the governor would be making the next appointment to the RCCC board, and Terry told him it would be in June.

CRIMES

The possible new charges against Bundy were reported earlier this week by rrcn.com, an Internet news source based in Gaston. The charges stem from an alleged metal theft operation that targeted churches and rental properties in Halifax County.

According to that information, Detective Chris Scott of the Halifax County Sheriff's Office said felony warrants were filed on Tamara Nicole Lee, 28, and Julian Cornelius Smallwood III, 31, both of Roanoke Rapids, charging them with two counts of felonious breaking and entering, two counts of larceny after breaking and entering, two counts of possession of stolen goods, four counts of felony larceny, four counts of obtaining property by false pretense and unlawful transporting copper over 25 pounds.

The investigation by the Halifax lawmen began at the start of this year with Lee and Smallwood, along with two other reputed accomplices, being suspected in several burglaries of churches and vacant rental properties in the Enfield and Littleton areas. The alleged suspects would take stolen items and commodities to scrap yards to sell.

Scott did not have an exact dollar amount on the metal that was stolen. He did say that dryers, washing machines and window AC units were some of the items targeted in the thefts. Lee and Smallwood were arrested March 18 at their residences by Scott and Detective Harold Phillips. Lee is being held on $7,000 bond and awaiting an April 8 court date, while Smallwood is being held on $14,000 bond and is awaiting an April 2 court date.

Bundy, meanwhile, is an alleged accomplice of the two arrests, as is Claudia Renee Baldwin, who lives in the Highway 48 area of Roanoke Rapids. Felony warrants have also been filed for her arrest. This isn't the first time Bundy has been involved in criminal activity.

Last year he pled guilty to misdemeanor larceny and injury to personal property in Halifax County in a case involving the theft of eight batteries from the Roanoke Cotton Company in Weldon.

Bundy was sentenced to 90 days in the Halifax County Detention Center for that crime. While behind bars he was served with an arrest warrant on Aug. 16 charging him with breaking and entering, larceny after breaking and entering, and possession of stolen goods for a crime committed at a residence in the Clay Drive area of Halifax. Jewelry, a shotgun and window air conditioning units were reportedly stolen from the residence.

According to the North Carolina Department of Public Safety, Bundy's criminal history dates back to March of 2010 with his arrest in Hertford County for communicating threats and disorderly conduct. Later that year he was arrested again in Hertford County for felonious possession of stolen goods. He served 45 days in jail for that crime.

In July of 2011 he served one month behind bars in Winton for criminal contempt of court. Later the same year he pulled two months in jail for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and driving while license were revoked.

Both those misdemeanors or offenses occurred in Hertford County. (Portions of this story were published, with permission, of Lance Martin, Publisher and Editor of www.rrcn.com.)

Roanoke Rapids Police Captain O.L. Morgan said the possession of stolen goods count reflects money that was stolen in the Village Grocery robberies as well as the residential break-in.

Morgan declined comment on how Detective Bobby Martin linked Rook to the armed robberies, which occurred less than three weeks apart in late January and early February.

The investigation, however, led to the residential break-in being solved, Morgan said. Roanoke Rapids Detective Roy Ball investigated that case.

Rook was jailed on $200,000 bond and has an April 29 court date. Village Grocery was located near Park Stone and the Roanoke Canal Museum, was first robbed on the evening of Jan. 25. That crime occurred around 6:15 when a man dressed in a camouflage coat, a stocking cap over his face and dark gloves entered the store, possibly brandishing a large knife.

He demanded money while customers were inside the store. The clerk complied and the suspect left on foot, heading up what is known as Bunker Hill beside storage units and the museum. The robber left a trail of change as he fled.

The store was robbed again on Feb. 6. Leading Roanoke Rapids Police to determine that the crimes were committed by the same person.

No one was hurt in either robbery.

Ice causes rollover

From Staff Reports

GASTON — With freezing rain impacting most of Northampton County on Monday night, motorists were unprepared for icy roads on Tuesday morning.

Gaston Fire and Rescue units were dispatched around 7 a.m. Tuesday to a vehicle rollover off Blythe Road in Gaston.

Upon arrival, crews found the vehicle upright and the driver pinned in between the passenger door and roof of his pickup truck. The driver stated that he was driving down Blythe Road when he hit ice and he lost control of the vehicle, according to Gaston Fire & Rescue Chief Ed Porter Jr.

The driver further stated that his vehicle then went off the embankment and rolled approximately three times, before the truck impacted a tree and landed on a pump house off Avent Lane.

After stabilizing the vehicle, firefighters removed the roof and passenger door to access the patient. Patient care was provided by Gaston EMS and Northampton County EMS.

The driver was later transported by Northampton County EMS to Halifax Regional Medical Center, where he was listed in stable condition as of Tuesday morning.

The investigation into the accident is being handled by the North Carolina Highway Patrol.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the North Carolina Utilities Commission (Commission) has scheduled a public hearing in conjunction with the Commission's review and evaluation of integrated resource planning (IRP) in North Carolina. The purpose of the review and evaluation is to ensure that each regulated electric utility operating in North Carolina is developing reliable production and demand-side management programs that meet the state's electricity needs in a cost-effective manner. IRP is intended to identify those electric resource options which can be obtained at least cost to ratepayers in North Carolina consistent with adequate, reliable electric service. IRP considers generation, transmission and other demand-side program alternatives in the selection of resources that each of the electric utilities furnish the Commission with a biennial report in even-numbered years that contains the specific information set out in this Commission Rule. In odd-numbered years, each of the electric utilities must file a compliance plan with the Commission. In addition, electric utilities and power suppliers are required to include their plans for meeting customer electric needs via renewable energy resources and energy efficiency programs by submitting a Renewable Energy and Energy Efficiency Portfolio Standards compliance plan (REPS compliance plan) as part of the IRP filing.

During the public hearing to be held in this docket, the Commission will receive testimony from nonpartisan public witnesses with respect to the most current annual update IRP reports and REPS compliance plans filed in 2013 by Duke Energy Progress, Inc.; Duke Energy Carolinas, LLC; and Virginia Electric and Power Company, d/b/a Dominion North Carolina Power.

A night hearing for the convenience of public witnesses and easy for the purpose of taking nonpartisan public witness testimony is hereby scheduled as follows:

Begin: 7:00 p.m., on Monday, April 28, 2014, in Commission Hearing Room 2116, Dobbs Building, 430 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina.

Anyone wishing to review the IRPs and REPS compliance plans filed by the utilities may do so either at the Commission's website, www.ncuc.gov, by selecting the Dockets tab and clicking Docket No. E-100 Sub 457, or at the Office of the Chief Clerk of the Commission, Dobbs Building, 430 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina. Upon request, the Chief Clerk will place copies of the IRPs, compliance plans and any other documents filed in the process in any publicly-accessible public libraries when they may be copied without prohibition. Such a request may be made by writing to the Chief Clerk, North Carolina Utilities Commission, 4323 Mail Services Center, Raleigh, North Carolina 27699-4325, and providing the name and address of the library to which the information is to be mailed.

Persons desiring to present testimony for the record should appear at the public hearing. Persons desiring to send written statements to inform the Commission of their positions in the matter should address their statements to:

Chief Clerk, North Carolina Utilities Commission, 4323 Mail Services Center, Raleigh, NC 27699-4325.

The Public Staff of the North Carolina Utilities Commission, through its Executive Director, is required by statute to represent the using and consuming public in proceedings before the Commission. Written statements to the Public Staff should be addressed to:

Kirby Club has St. Patrick's theme

CONWAY • The Kirby and Literary Club met on Saturday, March 8 in the Fellowship Hall of Conway Baptist Church. Hostess Pam Brett welcomed members and guests and offered appetizers of sausage dip, chips, sugared almonds and lime punch.

God impressing him to return to Ireland to spread the gospel there and that is exactly what he did. It is Irish folklore that Patrick used the Shamrock to explain the Trinity. It is amazing that he went to Ireland first as a slave, and then went back as a missionary. Sometimes that is how God calls us!

with Bonnie Barrett singing lead. Pam Brett sang the lead on "Count Me In" and "I Keep Praying." Tim Guest sang lead on "Help Me, Lord." The group is very versatile in switching parts. Most of the time Bennie Barrett sings lead, Pam Brett sings tenor, Paula Barrett sings alto and Tim Guest sings bass.

The color scheme was green and white. Patrick's Day. Tables were set with linen tablecloths and lace overlays. Centerpieces were spring flowers in silver budvases. Shamrocks served as place cards. Green leprechaun hats filled with mintis, "Harry and David's" Bing Cherry and chocolate candy were favors for the guests. Pieces of shamrock confetti were scattered on the table. Lighted ficus trees added a bright touch to the room.

Pam introduced His 4 Ever, a Southern gospel group. Members of His 4 Ever are Bennie Barrett, Paula Barrett, Pam Brett and Tim Guest (all of Conway Baptist Church). The group enjoys singing for area events and in area churches. They sing wonderful four-part harmony and witness for Christ with their music.

At the close of the program, Pam Brett thanked everyone for attending the luncheon and said, "Hope you had a wonderful time!" She reminded us to turn our clocks back and invited everyone to come to revival at Conway Baptist Church beginning Sunday, March 16th. Reverend Tommy Tripp from Bethany Baptist Church will be the speaker. Holy Orders will be the hostess for the April meeting. Members and guests attending the luncheon were: Dodo Johnson, Becky Flynn, Goldie Eley,

After a time of fellowship and when guests were seated, Pam welcomed everyone. She thanked Wanda Guest for preparing the food. Pam explained that she experienced severe back and leg pain during the week. Wanda volunteered to help with the meeting. Pam introduced her special guests, sister Linda Bunch and mother Barbara Gosnell. Pam recognized Linda Bunch and Francine Martin as "leprechauns" with March 17th birthdays. She noted that Helen Briggs (who was unable to attend the luncheon) also had a birthday on March 17th.

The program included: "Blame It On Love," "Count Me In," "The Green Tree (that He knew would be used to make the old rugged cross)," "Help Me, Lord" and "I Keep Praying." The finale was "If You Knew Him"

Lynn Edwards, Wanda Martin, Cheryl Martin, Francine Martin, Eloise Ward, Anne White, Carol of Piper, Anne Lassiter, Barbara Gosnell, Linda Bunch, Taylor Jenkins, Wanda Guest, Pam Brett, Paula Barrett, Bennie Barrett and Tim Guest.

Following the blessing, the meal was served. Lunch began with broccoli soup (made from Goldie Eley's recipe) and crackers. The entrée included chicken salad on lettuce, lime congealed salad, potato casserole, deviled egg and a roll. Beverages of tea and water were served. A slice of "Mrs. Edwards'" Key Lime Pie was served for dessert. Assisting Wanda Guest in the serving of the meal were Paula Barrett, Taylor Jenkins and Tim Guest.

Following lunch, Pam invited everyone to the Church Sanctuary for a concert by His 4 Ever. She repeated a "Thank-you" to Wanda Guest for her help with the luncheon. She reminded us about the color green in the decorations, punch and menu. We had two "leprechauns" present that day and Pam honored both with green neckties.

She asked, "What is St. Patrick's Day all about?" She related some history about St. Patrick's Day. Patrick was a citizen of Roman Britain in the fourth century. At the age of 16, he was captured by the Irish and taken to Ireland. He escaped and returned to his homeland Britain. He later heard the voice of founded 20 years ago by Mary Frances Brien and a board of dedicated members who volunteered and gave of themselves to make sure students that needed it were getting individual help.

Barfield said the organization held a wrestling fundraising event last weekend hoping the venue would create funds to keep things going.

"It didn't work out so well," Barfield said adding while the family-oriented event was successful and fun for attendees, donors only broke even after the event and no one was paid.

She expressed her gratitude to all the businesses, organizations and individuals who stepped up to support the event, but sadly said it was not enough to pull the program out of this slump. "I can't carry (the program) through the end of the (school) year at a tremendous personal loss," she said. "But I don't know what we will do after that we need the community to come together to keep this."

Barfield said it is throughout the years, hundreds of volunteers have worked with hundreds of students to help them overcome challenges in their schooling.

She said as early as kindergarten, teachers are working to distinguish areas where students need special help, and by the time a student's first and third grade teachers are able to assess which students to refer to the program.

She said students enrolled in the program not only receive one-on-one help with homework and class assignments, but also a safe environment to learn in. She also said many of her students have graduated and come by to thank her.

Barfield said one of her graduating students informed her this week he is receiving a full scholarship to state affiliated.

she hears stories like this it makes her emotional. "I can never say anything bad about this program," she said. "It's just such a blessing."

 (RALEIGH)
 DOCKET NO. E-100 SUB 13

BEFORE THE NORTH CAROLINA UTILITIES COMMISSION
 In the Matter of
 2013 Integrated Resource Plan, Annual Update Reports and Related 2013 REPS Compliance Plans

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON 2013 RPP/ANNUAL UPDATE REPORTS AND 2013 REPS COMPLIANCE PLANS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the North Carolina Utilities Commission (Commission) has scheduled a public hearing in conjunction with the Commission's review and evaluation of integrated resource planning (IRP) in North Carolina. The purpose of the review and evaluation is to ensure the properly regulated electric utility operating in North Carolina is developing reasonable projections of its long-range demands for electricity in its service area and is developing a combination of reliable resource options for meeting the anticipated demand in the most cost-effective manner. IRP is intended to identify those electric resource options which can be obtained at least cost to ratepayers in North Carolina consistently with adequate reliable electric service. IRP considers conservation, efficiency, load management and other demand-side program alternatives in the selection of resource options. Commission Rule R-30 requires that each of the electric utilities furnish the Commission with a biennial report in even-numbered years that contain the specific information set out in that Commission Rule. In odd-numbered years, each of the electric utilities must file an annual report updating its most recently filed biennial report. In addition, electric power suppliers are required to include their plans for meeting customer energy needs via renewable energy resources and energy efficiency programs by submitting a Renewable Energy and Energy Efficiency Portfolio Standard Compliance Plan (REPS compliance plan) as part of their IRP filing.

During the public hearing to be held in this docket, the Commission will receive testimony from non-expert public witnesses with respect to the most current annual update (RPP) reports and REPS compliance plans filed in 2013 by Duke Energy Progress, Inc., Duke Energy Carolinas, LLC and Virginia Electric and Power Company (Duke Dominion North Carolina Power).

Any hearing for the convenience of public witnesses and solely for the purpose of taking non-expert public witness testimony is hereby scheduled as follows:

Date: Raleigh, 7:00 p.m. on Monday, April 28, 2014, in Commission Hearing Room 2115 Dobbs Building, 480 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina.

Anyone wishing to review the IRP and REPS compliance plans filed by the utilities may do so either on the Commission's website, www.ncuc.state.nc.us, by contacting the Docket Staff and entering Docket No. E-100 Sub 137, or at the Office of the Chief Clerk of the Commission, Dobbs Building, 480 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina. Upon request, the Chief Clerk will provide copies of the IRP, compliance plans and any other documents filed in the proceeding in centrally located public libraries where they may be copied without prohibition. Such a request may be made by writing to the Chief Clerk, North Carolina Utilities Commission, 4325 Mail Service Center, Raleigh, North Carolina 27699-4325, and providing the name and address of the library to which the information is to be mailed.

Persons desiring to present testimony or on the record should appear at the public hearing. Persons desiring to give written statements to inform the Commission of their positions in the matter should address the statements to:

Chief Clerk
 North Carolina Utilities Commission
 4325 Mail Service Center
 Raleigh, NC 27699-4325

The Public Staff, North Carolina Utilities Commission through its Executive Director is headed by statute to represent the using and consuming public in proceedings before the Commission. Written statements to the Public Staff should be addressed to:

Ex-detective pleads guilty in scandal

A retired police detective on Tuesday became the first person to plead guilty in a corruption probe involving alleged ties to a Mexican businessman illegally donated more than $500,000 to support San Diego politicians.

Ernesto Encinas, 58, pleaded guilty to federal counts of conspiracy to commit crimes against the United States and filing a false tax return. He faces up to eight years in prison when he is sentenced June 9.

Encinas, who retired in 2009 from the San Diego Police Department after 31 years with the same employer, is a central figure in the scandal for his role as head of the security detail for Mexican businessman Jose Susano Acosta, the alleged source of the illegal contributions.

Zoo's new baby gorilla has pneumonia

A baby gorilla delivered by a rare emergency cesarean section last week at the San Diego Zoo has pneumonia and is receiving round-the-clock care.

Zoo spokeswoman Christina Simmons says the female gorilla was receiving oxygen and other treatment on Tuesday. She says the gorilla is sleeping a lot but is getting stronger day by day and vets are cautiously optimistic about her condition.

The medical team includes both vets and specialists in human neonatal care.

The gorilla was born March 12 and underwent surgery last Friday for a collapsed lung. Its mother, whether she contracted pneumonia before or after birth.

The mother gorilla, an 18-year-old named Inani, had never given birth.

The animal care staff tend to a 1-day-old baby girl gorilla on Wednesday who was born at the San Diego Zoo Safari Park after an emergency cesarean procedure.

Man sentenced in hitting of parents

A California man has been sentenced to probation after pleading no contest to felony assault in the hitting of his parents when they told he couldn't see the family cat.

San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Jonathan Karam gave 29-year-old Gregory Bolobakov three years of probation Monday.

District Attorney Steve Wagstaff said Bolobakov lived with his parents in Daly City and asked them to see the cat when he came home from an outing Nov. 30. He was told he couldn't because it was recovering from surgery.

The San Francisco Chronicle reported that Bolobakov punched and bit his 64-year-old father, ripping flesh from his arm.

Jeb Bush mulls White House run

MIAMI (AP) — Jeb Bush gets the question of just about every public appearance these days: Will you run for president?

The former Florida governor gives a well-worn answer: "I can honestly tell you that I don't know what I'm going to do. It's an answer that won't satisfy the GOP faithful for much longer."

The son of the Bush political dynasty will likely be asked the question many times in the coming weeks as he raises his profile with appearances in Tennessee, New Mexico, Nevada and

Jeb Bush

Texas — where he'll bump into another possible 2016 presidential candidate, Hillary Rodham Clinton.

Bush's "yes" or "no" is one of the most significant factors looming over the 2016 Republican presidential contest. A White House bid by the brother and son of presidents would shake up a wide-open GOP field, attract a legion of big-money donors and set up a showdown with the independent tea party movement. Bush has said he'll consult with his family this summer and make a decision by the end of the year.

With New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie facing multiple investigations in a political retribution probe, many Republicans see Bush as a potent alternative: a two-term GOP governor who thrived in the nation's largest swing-voting state and could make the party more inclusive.

Friends and advisers say he is seriously considering a presidential run.

SEATTLE (AP) — A news contractor working nearby said he saw the helicopter crash into a steel and burst into flames Tuesday near Seattle's Space Needle, killing two people on board, badly injuring a man in a car and sending plumes of black smoke over the city during the morning commute.

Witnesses reported seeing the helicopter west down at a busy downtown intersection and hit three vehicles, starting them on fire and spreading burning fuel down the street.

NYC fire department settles discrimination lawsuit

NEW YORK (AP) — About 1,500 firefighters who took New York City fire department entrance exams that were found to be biased will be eligible to receive back pay totaling $90 million, a black firefighters group that had sued the city over racial discrimination said Tuesday.

The settlement of the 7-year-old case capped a long and arduous legal fight by the group, the Veterans Sociey, over diversity in the fire department.

In a city where more than half of residents identify with a racial minority group, black firefighters have never made up more than 4 percent of the department's total.

"This is a great day in the city of New York," said Capt. Paul Washington, a past president of the Veterans Society. "And we hope that this is the beginning of a new day for the New York City Fire Department."

Besides back pay, the settlement includes more than $6 million to cover lost medical payments, fringe benefits and interest for those who took the test in 1999 and 2002. It also allows for firefighters to be assigned to firehouses in neighborhoods where they live.

The payment method hasn't been determined and will have to be approved by a federal judge.

Mayor Bill de Blasio, who has yet to appoint a fire commissioner, and his cooperation counsel, Zachary Carter, praised the settle-

EDGECOMBE COUNTY

Operation Medicine Drop a success

Nearly 17,000 medicines were collected Saturday by Edgemcombe County officials during Operation Medicine Drop.

Deputies were at five locations throughout the county to collect unwanted medications as part of the national effort to reduce abuse and poisonings from prescription medications. Officials said 16,762 pills of prescription and over-the-counter medicines were turned in throughout the four-hour event.

The medicines included Hydrocodone, Percocet, Darvocet, Oxycodone and other strong narcotics, Edgemcombe County Sheriff James Knight said.

"These drugs in particular are some of the drugs that teens use recreationally to get high."

Teen faces gun, drug charges

Rocky Mount police charged a local teenager Friday with drug- and gun-related charges. Jamar Darnell Williams, 19, was charged with carrying a concealed weapon, possession of marijuana with the intent to sell and deliver and possession of marijuana. He was jailed in Nash County under a $3,000 secured bond.

Authorities said officers responded around 6 p.m. to a report of shots fired on the 1200 block of Winston Walk. Police stopped a vehicle believed to be involved in the incident, but Williams ran and was apprehended after a short chase. The officers seized a weapon and an ounce of marijuana from Williams.

The shooting, which damaged two vehicles, is under investigation.

Woman works to promote epilepsy awareness

BY MICHAEL ABRAMOWITZ
The Greensboro Daily Reflector

GREENVILLE — Greenville resident Suzanne Powell is working hard to elevate her community's knowledge and comfort with talking about epilepsy.

Powell on Tuesday shared her own experience to promote the need for people to open up and talk about epilepsy rather than fear it.

Powell's 18-year-old daughter, Leah, drowned in July after having a grand mal seizure — characterized by a loss of consciousness and violent muscle contractions — while she was alone in the family pool. Leah, who otherwise was in good health, was diagnosed with the illness when she was 7 and had not had a seizure for about a year before that, Powell said.

SDtLight was controlled with a boote (anticonvulsant) medicine and she only had one or two seizures a year," Powell said. "Her seizures usually were triggered by flashing lights, like from a television or driving down the road and seeing light flickering between trees or buildings. Stress and the lack of sleep also were contributing factors."

The seizures experienced by Josh McGee, a 20-year-old ECU undergraduate who met with Powell to promote Purple Day, were not triggered the way Leah Powell's were, he said.

"I've had just a few grand mal, but most were simple partial seizures, also called 'absent seizures,' where you just stare off into the distance," McGee said.

He was prescribed many kinds of medications to treat his condition, but his seizures got progressively worse.

McGee underwent comprehensive diagnostic procedures that revealed he was an ideal candidate for a surgical procedure to attack the problem at its source, he said.

"They put electrodes on my brain's temporal lobe and removed the problem area. Now it's a simple matter, then removed that portion of my brain," McGee said.

He still is taking precautionary medications but has not had a seizure since, McGee said.

Suzanne Powell hangs a poster promoting Purple Day which is in honor of epilepsy awareness Tuesday in the Bate Building on East Carolina University campus.

FUNDING

averaging approximately 10 percent higher per month than the monthly average last year. Expenses have included the repair of two water line breaks, the replacement of two heating air units and the addition of off-duty police officers on the Rocky Mount campus.

County Manager Lorenzo Cannon said this year's budget is perhaps one of the tightest budgets the county has had. County officials cut funding to a number of agencies, including volunteer fire departments, public schools, Edgemcombe Community College and county departments. The county also has opted not to fill some positions when they became vacant in an effort to reduce costs, Cannon said.

ECC President Dr. Deborah Linn said college officials are cognizant of the economic situation the county is facing, and they try to do as much as they can with the funding that county officials allocate to them.

After some discussion, Commissioner Billy Wooden proposed that the board try to find $34,000 in current expenses for the college rather than the full $145,000. The community college funding request included $34,000 for current expenses and $111,000 for capital outlay expenditures and off-duty police officers on the Rocky Mount campus, according to information provided in the meeting agenda packet.

Commissioners Evelyn Purcell and Viola Harris were excused from the vote because they work for the college. Commissioner Wayne Hines and Board Chairman Leonard Wiggins voted against the motion. Hines said the college is doing great work. However, he questioned what county commissioners would do for other agencies who made funding requests if the board chooses to allot additional funding for the college.

Wiggins said representatives from the Department of Social Services requested additional money, and other agencies need money, too.

"If we do this, then we have a similar responsibility to look at all the rest of the agencies that we cut that have come to us to see we do not need to open that door," Wiggins said. Commissioner Donald Bovall said the county is in a position where it can't keep kicking the can down the road, but he said the college can't do without heating and air or without fixing water line breaks.

"We're not giving money for anything except things that you must have to operate," Powell said.

Then officials met with Mason last week and voted during a town board meeting Monday night to hire him for the interim town manager position. He will be paid $30 an hour, plus infringe to commute from Garrettsville said.

Mason will help the town put together a job description for the permanent town manager position. Jones said Mason has retired twice already, so he is not interested in the permanent position.

BEFORE THE NORTH CAROLINA UTILITIES COMMISSION

In the Matter of

2013 Integrated Resource Plan)
Annual Update Reports and Related 2013) NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON 2013 REPS Compliance Plans) IRP ANNUAL UPDATE-REPORTS AND
2013 REPS COMPLIANCE PLANS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the North Carolina Utilities Commission (Commission) has scheduled a public hearing in conjunction with the Commission's review and evaluation of integrated resource planning (IRP) in North Carolina. The purpose of the review and evaluation is to ensure that each regulated electric utility operating in North Carolina is developing reliable projections of the long-range demands for electricity in its service area and is developing a combination of reliable resource options for meeting the anticipated demands in a cost-effective manner. IRP is intended to identify those electric resource options which can be obtained at least cost to ratepayers in North Carolina consistent with adequate, reliable electric service. IRP considers conservation, efficiency, load management and other demand-side program alternatives in the selection of resource options. Commission Rule R8-60 requires that each of the electric utilities furnish the Commission with a biennial report in even-numbered years that contains the specific information set out in that Commission Rule. In odd-numbered years, each of the electric utilities must file an annual report updating its most recently filed biennial report. In addition, electric power suppliers are required to include their plans for meeting customer electric needs via renewable energy resources and energy efficiency programs by submitting a Renewable Energy and Energy Efficiency Portfolio Standard compliance plan (REPS compliance plan) as part of the IRP filing.

During the public hearing to be held in this docket, the Commission will receive testimony from nonexpert public witnesses with respect to the most current annual update IRP reports and REPS compliance plans filed in 2013 by Duke Energy Progress, Inc.; Duke Energy Carolinas, LLC; and Virginia Electric and Power Company, d/b/a Dominion North Carolina Power.

A night hearing for the convenience of public witnesses and solely for the purpose of taking nonexpert public witness testimony is hereby scheduled as follows:

Raleigh: 7:00 p.m., on Monday, April 28, 2014, in Commission Hearing Room 2115, Dobbs Building, 430 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina.

Anyone wishing to review the IRPs and REPS compliance plans filed by the utilities may do so either at the Commission's website, www.ncuc.net, by selecting the Dockets tab and entering Docket No. E-100 Sub 137, or at the Office of the Chief Clerk of the Commission, Dobbs Building, 430 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina. Upon request, the Chief Clerk will place copies of the IRPs, compliance plans and any other documents filed in this proceeding in centrally-located public libraries where they may be copied without prohibition. Such a request may be made by writing to the Chief Clerk, North Carolina Utilities Commission, 4325 Mail Service Center, Raleigh, North Carolina 27699-4325, and providing the name and address of the library to which the information is to be mailed.

Persons desiring to present testimony for the record should appear at the public hearing. Persons desiring to send written statements to inform the Commission of their positions in the matter shall address their statements to:

Chief Clerk
