I would like to know how it's ok to raise the average light bill around $50.00 a month. People are hardly making ends meet as it is and now this. If Duke Energy needs to re-coup that much money maybe you need to look into how their money is being spent instead of putting that burden on other people's backs. It's a shame that you did not think of the "little people". We are STRUGGLING! Please re-consider these actions. Please give the average people a chance to voice their opinion first before shoving something like this down their throat. And please let me know if there is anything I can do to change this. I know this is probably not going to make a difference, but at least I tried.
