HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED AD

1. Start your ad with the merchandise you are selling - making it easier for the reader to locate your item(s) for sale.
2. Always include the price of the item you are selling - 52% of classified readers do not respond to ads that do not include a price.
3. Do not use abbreviations - make it easy for readers to understand.
4. Place yourself in the reader's position - ask what you would like to know about the merchandise for sale - include information such as brand names, colors and other specific descriptions.
5. Have any major credit card ready and call (704) 694-2161.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED AD

1. Start your ad with the merchandise you are selling - making it easier for the reader to locate your item(s) for sale.
2. Always include the price of the item you are selling - 52% of classified readers do not respond to ads that do not include a price.
3. Do not use abbreviations - make it easy for readers to understand.
4. Place yourself in the reader's position - ask what you would like to know about the merchandise for sale - include information such as brand names, colors and other specific descriptions.
5. Have any major credit card ready and call (704) 694-2161.

Virus

in the congregating living settings — something that hasn't happened in a daily report since March. It wasn't immediately clear if there was an error.

The county's number of active cases — no more than 79, though specific county Health Department updates had not been released by press time — was below 100 for the sixth consecutive day, the best stretch since the beginning days of the month. Six of the last nine days have included increases of two or less, including just one each Sunday and Monday.

In Sunday's release, the county had recorded 567 recoveries.

Deaths have been added to the DHHS report on May 6, May 11, June 25, July 9, July 28, Thursday and Saturday. A fatality recorded for the county July 31 was removed Aug. 5, and another recorded July 7 was removed Aug. 8.

Bladen County had no changes in Friday evening's detailed update on coronavirus clusters and outbreaks. The county has one location in Ivanhoe with a cluster, still logging five cases among staff, and one location in Elizabethtown with an outbreak, still with two cases among staff.

The postal ZIP code report from DHHS lists 180 cases in Elizabethtown and White Lake since the pandemic began; 74 in Bladenboro; 59 in White Oak; 58 in Clarkston; 56 in East Arcadia; 46 in Tar Heel; 16 in Kelly; 13 in Council; and seven in Dublin.

The numbers do not match the state's county total because not all communities are represented. The deaths are credited as one each in Bladenboro, Elizabethtown, Tar Heel, White Oak and Kelly. The other two are not linked to a ZIP code unique to Bladen County.

Monday's totals from the state included:

- 2,348 deaths, up one from Sunday.
- 145,516 cases, up 564.
- 980 hospitalized.

DHHS said Sunday's total, 934, was "artificially low for the state and the Mountain Area Healthcare Preparedness Coalition" because data from a large health system was not reported. Monday's report was up 46.

• 1,935,742 tests, up 11,096.

For most people, the coronavirus causes mild or moderate symptoms, such as fever and cough. But for others, especially older adults and people with existing health problems, the highly contagious virus can cause severe symptoms and be fatal.

In adjacent counties to Bladen, there have been 182 deaths and 9,660 cases. Cumberland has 56 deaths and 3,434 cases; Robeson has 56 deaths and 3,039 cases; Columbus has 48 deaths and 973 cases; Sampson has 19 deaths and 1,518 cases; and Pender has three deaths and 696 cases.

Congregating living settings in North Carolina have totaled 1,217 deaths and 13,919 positive cases. Outbreaks have been identified and are active at 187 nursing homes, 101 residential care facilities, 45 correctional institutions and 12 other facilities. Of those, seven are in Cumberland, four in Sampson, two each in Columbus, Robeson and Pender, and one in Bladen.

Cumberland also has two clusters and Bladen has one.

With 81 percent of the state's hospitals reporting, DHHS says there is availability of 73 percent of the ventilators, 25 percent of the intensive care unit beds and 29 percent of all hospital beds.

In the personal protective equipment category, gloves are at a 66-day supply and all other categories are at least four months.

A combined 13 metropolitan counties have the state's three largest cities and account for 46.5 percent of the deaths (1,091) and 51.6 percent of the cases (75,081).

In the Charlotte area, Mecklenburg County has 258 deaths and 23,164 positive cases, Rowan County has 51 deaths and 2,367 cases, Cabarrus County has 50 deaths and 2,809 cases, Union County has 44 deaths and 3,384 cases, and Gaston County has 57 deaths and 3,579 cases — a total of 460 deaths and 35,303 cases.

In and near the Triangle area, Wake County has 183 deaths and 12,754 cases, Durham County has 79 deaths and 6,428 cases, Johnston County has 45 deaths and 3,444 cases, and Orange County has 48 deaths and 1,475 cases — a total of 355 deaths and 24,101 cases.

In the interior of the 12-county Piedmont Triad, Guilford County has 158 deaths and 5,974 cases, Forsyth County has 56 deaths and 5,561 cases, Randolph County has 39 deaths and 2,256 cases, and Davidson County has 23 deaths and 1,886 cases — a total of 276 deaths and 15,677 cases.

According to the coronavirus tracker of Johns Hopkins University, available on BladenJournal.com, more than 5.4 million confirmed cases and 170,000 deaths are counted in the U.S. The second-highest case total is in Brazil, with more than 3.3 million.

There are more than 21.7 million cases worldwide, with more than 776,000 deaths.

NC sees rise in percent of positive cases, a key metric for reopening

BY DREW JACKSON
jdjackson@charlotteobserver.com

RALEIGH

After North Carolina came within one percentage point of its goal, the state's percent of positive coronavirus cases ticked up Sunday for the first time in one week.

The state's Department of Health and Human Services reported 144,952 total lab-confirmed cases had been recorded in North Carolina as of Sunday, including 1,246 new cases.

The percent of people tested who were positive for coronavirus was 7%, up from 6% in recent days. State public health officials have set a goal of 5%.

The percent of positive cases is a key number used by the state in determining whether to lift restrictions put in place to slow the spread of the virus. North Carolina remains in Phase 2 of its reopening plan and will stay there at least into September.

The one-week dip in percent positive cases to 6% is the lowest North Carolina has seen since May.

On Sunday, North Carolina reported a dip in hospitalizations from COVID-19, to 934 current patients. But those figures appear lower, DHHS said, because only 80% of the state's hospitals reported data by Sunday's deadline. Hospitalizations are often lower on Sundays in general, as fewer hospitals report data on the weekends.

Despite the percent positive increase, North Carolina recorded its lowest case count in four days. The state's 7-day rolling average is trending upward for the first time in a week, while remaining below peak levels seen in July.

The state reported the fewest deaths in weeks, as the death toll increased by four Sunday to 2,347. North Carolinians lost to COVID-19.

While North Carolina's hospitalization figures are incomplete Sunday, the number of patients suffering from COVID-19 has dropped steadily for nearly a month, though the 7-day average trend of suspected but unconfirmed patients is trending upward.

The state looks to eclipse the 2 million test mark later next week, reporting 1.92 million COVID-19 tests have been administered since the beginning of the pandemic. North Carolina had previously reported more than 2 million tests, but last week DHHS said that figure was inflated by 221,000 due to a recording error by LabCorp.

Young boy shot, killed Saturday night in Charlotte

BY HANNAH SMOOT
hsmoot@charlotteobserver.com

CHARLOTTE

A 2-year-old boy was killed in a gun accident late Saturday night near Interstate 85 and West Sugar Creek Road, according to the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Police Department.

Police say Amor Cureton found his father's firearm and that the gun went off.

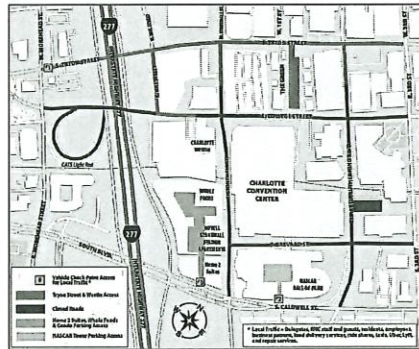

CMPD has charged Antonio Thomas Cureton, 24, in his son's death. Antonio Cureton was charged with involuntary manslaughter, two counts of possession of a firearm by a convicted felon, possession of a stolen firearm and failure to secure a firearm to protect a minor.

Police were called to reports of a shooting in the 5500 block of Reagan Drive at about 10 p.m. The incident happened at the Economy Inn, Observer news partner WBTV reported.

At the motel, officers found a young child with a life-threatening gunshot wound, according to police. The boy was pronounced dead at the hospital. A CMPD Canine Unit found a firearm at the scene, according to police.

The boy's death comes just days after another Charlotte 2-year-old was critically hurt in an accidental shooting. On Wednesday, a toddler found a gun and was shot. The boy in that case was taken to the hospital with life-threatening injuries and was in stable condition, the Observer reported Thursday.

Republican National Convention to alter downtown traffic

BY AMANDA ZHOU
azhou@charlotteobserver.com

Workers, visitors and travelers in uptown Charlotte may have to find another path in just over a week. The Republican National Convention will be in town.

On Friday, the RNC Joint Information Center — an agency involving the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Secret Service and Charlotte-Mecklenburg Police — released details on how traffic will be impacted between Aug. 23 and Aug. 25.

To establish a security perimeter, certain streets near the Charlotte Convention Center and NAS-CAR Hall of Fame will be closed. Three checkpoints will be used for anyone trying to enter.

Interstate 277 in both directions will remain open, as will on-ramps to Interstate 277 from South Caldwell Street, near South Boulevard and South Church Street.

ROAD CLOSURES AND PARKING RESTRICTIONS

Road closures will take effect at 6 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 23 but "travel impacts" are expected to begin at 6 a.m. that day, RNC security leaders said in a statement Friday. Closures will be lifted by 6 a.m., Tuesday, Aug. 25.

Off-limits parking areas will be posted with "Emergency No Parking" signs beginning Friday, Aug. 21. Charlotte-Mecklenburg Police and Charlotte Department of Transportation will enforce the parking restrictions and road closures. If a vehicle is towed, officials advise using the City of Charlotte's 311.

HERE ARE THE ROADS YOU CAN EXPECT TO BE CLOSED:

- Southbound I-277 exit ramp onto South College Street
- South College Street between W. Morehead Street and East Hill Street
- South College Street between the Westin Hotel and 3rd Street
- South Brevard Street between East Stonewall Street and 3rd Street
- East Stonewall Street between the Harvey B. Gantt Center for African American Arts + Culture and S. Caldwell Street
- East Martin Luther King Jr. Boulevard from the middle of the block (between South Tryon Street and South College Street) and South Caldwell Street
- All alleyways and roads within the perimeter

CHECKPOINTS

Starting at 6 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 23, three vehicle checkpoints will search and screen vehicles. Only limited, authorized traffic will be allowed. That includes vehicles with delegates, RNC staff and guests, residents, employees, business patrons, food delivery services, ride shares, taxis, U-Haul, and repair services.

All other vehicles will be turned away. Businesses nearby and within the perimeter can remain open if permitted by coronavirus regulations. All drivers should exit at the checkpoint they entered.

Checkpoint No. 1, located at South Tryon Street at West Morehead Street will provide access to: Tryon Street, the Westin Hotel, Regions Bank building on College Street, Stonewall Street parking garages between Tryon Street and the Harvey Gantt Center and MLK Boulevard. Any businesses in the area that are allowed to open can be reached by walking.

Checkpoint No. 2, located on South Caldwell Street, provides access to the entrance of the NAS-CAR Hall of Fame/office tower parking garage. The garage is accessible to building tenants only. Businesses in the area that are allowed to open can be reached by walking.

tion Apartments, Whole Foods and Home 2 Suites. Businesses in this area can only use the parking garage accessible from South Boulevard. Residents, guests and shoppers should access the parking area from South Boulevard.

PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION

The CATS Lynx Light Rail will be closing all tracks on the Blue Line between Carson Station and the 7th Street Station starting at 5:15 a.m. on Sunday, Aug. 23 until 5:15 a.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 25. Those stations will remain open but the MLK/Convention Center and Trade Street stations will be closed.

A bus bridge for through riders between Carson Street and 7th Street station will be available. No bus service will be allowed inside the perimeter.

According to the press release issued by RNC Security Joint Information Center, an airspace security plan will be implemented to secure the airspace over the Charlotte metropolitan area. The Federal Aviation Administration has also designated the Charlotte area as a "No Drone Zone" and will implement temporary flight restrictions from 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 24.

Thom Tillis will miss Trump's NC stop, isn't speaking at RNC

BY TIM FUNK
tfunk@charlotteobserver.com

He's in the middle of one of the most contested Senate races in the country as Republicans battle to keep control of the upper chamber. And he's been a strong supporter of President Donald Trump and an advocate to bring the 2020 Republican National Convention to Charlotte.

But U.S. Sen. Thom Tillis, R-N.C., will be a no-show Monday when Trump stops at the Charlotte Convention Center to thank the 336 RNC delegates meeting there for nominating him to a second term. Tillis will be in Charlotte on Monday, his campaign said. But he scheduled another event at noon — the same time Trump is expected to greet the delegates at the scaled-back Charlotte portion of this week's GOP convention.

Why is Tillis not joining Trump and the delegates? "Senator Tillis has no role in the official business occurring at the convention tomorrow," his spokesman Andrew Ramos said in a statement Sunday. "So he will instead spend the day at a small business contrasting his support for the Paycheck Protection Program and the need to extend it with (Democratic opponent) Cal Cunningham's hypocritical criticisms of the PPP."

Tillis' campaign has charged that Cunningham criticized the PPP, a federal loan program, even though his former company, WasteZero, got a loan. Cunningham has said he called for fixes to the PPP, and that he left WasteZero before Trump signed the program into law in late March.

Besides missing Trump in Charlotte, Tillis is not on the list of speakers for the televised portions of the Republican National Convention, which will run Monday through Thursday nights.

Six GOP senators will get TV time, including U.S. Sen. Tim Scott, R-S.C. But only one of them — U.S. Sen. Joni Ernst, R-Iowa — is involved in a competitive race like Tillis's.

Though the national Democratic Party is helping former N.C. Sen. Cunningham in his bid to unseat Tillis, Cunningham did not get a speaking slot at the Democrats' virtual convention last week.

Three North Carolinians will speak during GOP convention week. Eleventh District congressional candidate Madison Cawthorn and Charlotte Henderson, a civil rights pioneer who participated in the Greensboro sit-ins in 1960, will speak Wednesday night. And evangelist Franklin Graham, a Trump supporter who leads the Charlotte-based Billy Graham Evangelistic Association, will be on the Thursday night roster.

Though the Charlotte portion of the RNC will last only a few hours Monday, it is still considered a "high-risk" event during this pandemic, with delegates — six from each state and U.S. territory — from all over the country. If Tillis were going to attend the convention in Charlotte, he would presumably be subject to sweeping coronavirus protocols to screen for the infection.

Hattie's Tap & Tavern owner Jackie DeLoach said she was told last week by an ALE agent she can no longer sell beer to go. "I'm not sure what they're expecting us to do."

Charlotte bar owners confused as agents say they must close

BY CATHERINE MUCCIGROSSO
cmuccigrosso@charlotteobserver.com

Charlotte bar owners say they are perplexed by new enforcement against them over Gov. Roy Cooper's executive order meant to help stop the spread of the novel coronavirus.

For five months, some local bars have been selling beer and wine to go while other bars with kitchens reopened dining rooms, as restaurants were allowed to reopen statewide in Phase 2 on May 22.

But something changed last week, some bar owners said. Permitted as private clubs, they said they were told by Alcohol Law Enforcement agents they must shut down.

David McCoy, executive officer of Mecklenburg County ABC Board Law Enforcement Division, said county agents are following guidance from the state. He wasn't sure Friday what had changed. "Something changed this week at the state level," he said. "We are about as confused in this as you are."

WBTB, the Observer's news partner, reported that 50 private bars were visited Thursday night after state ABC commission attorneys advised Charlotte-Mecklenburg Police that "private bars are restricted from onsite alcohol sales and onsite consumption under the governor's order."

CMPD Deputy Chief Jeff Estes said Friday he's still trying to get clarity. A state ALE official could not be reached for comment Friday. ALE is the enforcement agency for the state's ABC commission.

TO-GO SALES

After Cooper ordered all bars to close March 17, Hattie's Tap & Tavern on the Plaza had been selling beer to go and bar merchandise. Owner Jackie DeLoach said that changed last week.

She said an ALE agent said bars like hers, under a private club permit, can't operate at all. But Hattie's customers don't even come inside, she said.

"That was really my source of income to pay my bills," she said. "I'm not sure what they're expecting us to do with zero income coming in."

McCoy said any permit to sell alcohol on premise automatically includes to-go sales. "They cannot belly up to the bar and hang out," he said. He couldn't clarify why bar owners are being told they can't sell beer to go, and referred questions to the state.

North Carolina Alcohol Beverage Control Commission spokesman Jeff Strickland said last week that if a business is permitted to sell alcohol that means it can also sell beer and wine to go.

"There has been no change during COVID-19 regarding what types of alcohol can be sold to go. Beer and wine can be sold to go ... as long as the business has the appropriate ABC retail permits to sell those products," Strickland said.

Mixed drinks, however, cannot be sold to go in North Carolina, he said. "This was the case prior to the onset of COVID-19," he said. "The only change during COVID-19 has been to allow businesses to use their adjacent curbsides as part of their licensed premises to more easily conduct socially-distanced to-go sales."

ON-SITE SALES

Other local bars said law enforcement also is shutting them down, despite an understanding that having a kitchen meant they could stay open. According to Cooper's executive order, food must account for at least 30% of all sales.

In July, The News &

Observer in Raleigh reported that an ABC commission memo said bars that serve food and meet safety criteria could be considered "private clubs" and be treated as restaurants under Phase 2. Kara Taddeo, with VBGB Beer Hall & Garden on Hamilton Street, said on Facebook that despite the beer hall following safety practices, an ALE officer said Thursday night it had to close per Cooper's order.

"No public announcements, no paper explanations, just a walk through the door from an officer saying shut your doors," she said on Facebook Friday.

Efforts to reach an official with VBGB on Friday were unsuccessful.

NO UNIFORMITY

Janice Starks, owner of Tommy's Pub on Eastway Drive, said the problem is inconsistency of enforcement.

"This is the kind of stuff a lot of private bar owners have been dealing with for years," Starks said. "Different agencies are not working together."

The North Carolina ABC Commission is a regulator and a resource for both ABC-permitted businesses and law enforcement. At the local level, there also is the Mecklenburg County ABC Board.

Enforcement is by state ALE agents who also work with CMCPD to primarily enforce state alcoholic beverage laws.

Molly Poe said she posted on social media about the to-go sales problem to raise awareness. Poe has worked as a bartender at several bars including Thirsty Beaver Saloon, Neighborhood Theatre and Abari Game Bar.

After everything shut down in March, she found an office job.

"It's been hard seeing friends' lives affected by this," she said. She, too, said the inconsistent enforcement of the regulations is a problem. "I'm worried that some places won't make it," Poe said.

CLOSING TIME

Bars, along with gyms and event venues remain closed under Phase 2, which has been extended twice. The next possible reopening date is Sept. 11.

DeLoach, with Hattie's, said her federal Paycheck Protection Program loan of about $23,000 is gone. It paid for utilities and rent, and the rest, 40% has paid for four employees.

"It helped a tiny bit but that went away," DeLoach said. Without selling beer to go, "I literally have no income coming in."

She said the nearly six-year-old bar has a Go Fund Me page set up and holds car washes to get by. She said Hattie's can make it three more weeks, but if North Carolina doesn't move into Phase 3, she'll have to weigh her options.

Man killed in Charlotte altercation Saturday, cops say

BY JOE MARUSAK
jmarusak@charlotteobserver.com

A man died after suffering "life-threatening trauma" during an altercation in the common area of a northeast Charlotte apartment complex on Saturday, police said.

Late Saturday, police identified the victim as 35-year-old Billy Clay McKay Jr.

McKay knew the person whom police suspect of killing him, according to a Charlotte-Mecklenburg Police Department news release Saturday night.

On Sunday, police charged 31-year-old Jonathan Andre Ramsey with McKay's murder.

McKay was the city's 79th homicide victim of the year. At this time last year — one of the worst years for murders in a decade — Charlotte had 68 homicides, according to police.

Police said McKay died soon after Medics took him to a hospital, police said.

About 3:40 p.m., University City Division officers found the victim after responding to reports of an assault near the 10200 block of Pinal Place.

Police described their investigation as "active and ongoing."

The homicide was the second in two days.

On Friday, 20-year-old Zion Garcia died after being shot at an East Charlotte apartment complex. Garcia was found by officers in a parking lot two miles away, according to police.

lactic acid fermentation. The production of lactic acid preserves the vegetables and creates a tart flavor. Relishes and half-sour pickles usually ferment at cool room temperatures for about a week, but you can start tasting them to check on their progress after four days. Full-sour cucumbers ferment for about two weeks. You can also add grape, cherry, or oak leaves, as well as mustard seed to keep pickles crisp in the brine.

My son, Nate, is still staying with us and he has tried his hand at the half-sours and other fermented veggies, and I think we have perfected a recipe. I have included an easier preparation that does not involve room-temperature fermentation as well. This week I have included my recipe for quick Half-Sour Pickles.

Enjoy!

CANNING

from another distributor "Ball Corp has told their buyers they are short on workers, nobody wants to come to work so making just lids is not a focus. It will be at least until October before they start that line back up." It should be noted that Ball Corp is actually Newell: Ball left the home canning business in 1993 by spinning off a former subsidiary (Alltrist) into a free-standing company, which renamed itself Jarden Corporation. As part of the spin-off, Jarden is licensed to use the Ball registered trademark on its line of home-canning products. Today, the Ball brand mason jars and home canning supplies belongs to Newell Brands.

Other distributors I spoke to relayed not being able to give any estimates of when they could fulfill orders due to an increased demand on their supplier. They also noted that some suppliers had already completed manufacturing runs and had no plans to begin until next year. It also looks like requests are not only coming from those who sell to home food preservers but also from those who supply other industries. One example are candle makers who are unable to get the jars they typically use from their regular sources. Or even the supply having been scooped up by new entrepreneurs making and selling sanitizers sold in canning jars.

From the limited number of individuals I spoke with it looks like the difficulty in accessing canning supplies is due to both a high demand issue with more interest in home canning supplies (for food and other uses) and a supply issue with manufacturers navigating less employees to do the work.

So, what can home food preservers find it difficult to source canning supplies do?

First, do not skip steps when canning, continue to follow USDA recommended practices:

■ Use sound canning jars free of scratches, chips or nicks. These defects can cause seal failure if on the rim (because a good seal cannot be formed) or jar failure because the weakened jar cannot hold up to the rigors of processing. Using true canning jars is the best practice but the National Center for Home Food Preservation has said "commercial glass pint- and quart-size mayonnaise or salad dressing jars may be used with new two-piece lids for canning acid foods (food that might be processed in a boiling water bath). However, one should expect more seal failures and jar breakage. These jars have a narrower sealing surface and are tempered less than Mason jars, and may be weakened by repeated contact with metal spoons or knives used in dispensing mayonnaise or salad dressing. Seemingly insignificant scratches in glass may cause cracking and breakage while processing jars in a canner. Mayonnaise-type jars are not recommended for use with foods to be processed in a pressure canner because of excessive jar breakage. Other commercial jars with mouths that cannot be sealed with two-piece canning lids are not recommended for use in canning any food at home."

■ Use two-piece metal canning lids, which is the only recommended canning lid. The band is reusable but the lid is not; it may only be used once for processing.

■ Use a pressure canner for low acid foods such as meat, poultry, or vegetables or combinations of these foods. Boiling water canning is reserved for higher acid and acidified foods such as pickles, most fruit and sweet spreads. It should be noted that tomatoes should be acidified whether they are boiling water or pressure canned.

■ Alternatives to canning should also be considered if the needed supplies cannot be accessed. Home food preservers have options such as freezing, fermenting (which can buy some time to get supplies before the fermented food needs to be canned or refrigerated) or dehydrating foods.

■ When considering freezing also keep in mind that it might be a good idea to plan a backup source of energy just in case the power goes out. A reliable source of energy is necessary to keep frozen food safe.

I personally am looking forward to not struggling to find canning supplies. But until the canning supply can keep up with the demand, I will lean more on the other options that home food preservers have to safely keep their food for longer.

her mother work as part of such a team at Lawrence Academy in Merry Hill, where Potter attended school. Her mother's job as a teacher assistant influenced Potter's decision to pursue a degree in elementary education from East Carolina University.

"I never wanted to be anything else," said Potter, 48, a Plymouth native. "If I wasn't going to be this, I was going to be a librarian. ... It was always going to be something with books and reading, teaching."

A former kindergarten teacher at Elmhurst Elementary School, Potter later taught part-time after the birth of her second son. When Ridgewood opened in 2008, she came to the new school, bringing both her children along.

Ridgewood Principal Leslie Hayes said Potter is a teacher who invests in every child, taking time to build relationships with her students. "Mrs. Potter creates a nurturing learning environment, where students feel safe and respected," Hayes said. "She is passionate about teaching and excels at creating opportunities for success for every child."

Potter's enthusiasm for education wasn't diminished by what some consider a daunting list of new requirements schools must meet to help prevent the spread of COVID-19.

Even reading specialists, who work closely with small groups of children, are required to maintain 6 feet of distance from their students and must wear a face covering. That can be a challenge for an educator whose effectiveness depends, in part, on a child's ability to see and hear how she enunciates.

Potter wears a clear mask similar to what a speech therapist might use to allow her students to see her mouth. But expressions are not the only things that seem muzzled in the new environment.

"Part of having a nurturing personality is, of course, giving that pat on the back or that fist bump, just some kind of affirmation other than your verbal feedback that (says) 'I'm really proud of you and you're doing great,'" she said. "So that has definitely been challenging, but the kids are doing amazing. ... They're good about the air high fives and air hugs and air fist bumps."

In Monday's announcement of the award, Madeleine Jones, chairperson of Pitt County Farm Bureau women's committee, acknowledged that teachers working to adapt to changes related to the coronavirus have no easy task.

"These days we find ourselves in unfamiliar waters; however, we must adapt and be flexible in an ever-fluid environment. Today the staff and educators of increase in overall enrollment.

Students in professional programs — medical, dental, audiology, nursing and physical therapy — are up more than 6 percent. This year, 928 students are in those programs compared to 870 last year, according to an ECU News Services release.

At UNC System institutions, the 10th day of class is census day and it provides a snapshot of school enrollment data. Friday was ECU's census day. Figures are considered preliminary until reviewed and approved by the UNC General Administration.

Despite the coronavirus pandemic, ECU received more than 20,000 freshman applications, the most in school history. There are 4,146 first-time freshmen enrolled.

Starting today ECU undergraduate classes switched to online instruction after more than 250 student tested positive for COVID-19 in a week's time. The university extended its deadline for withdrawing from the first block of eight-week classes until Friday. A university spokeswoman said administrators don't anticipate a significant drop in enrollment because of the shift.

"In challenging times, people often turn to higher education as a path to a brighter future," said Grant Hayes, acting provost. "A growing student body means greater opportunities for many students, and ECU is looking forward to providing these talented students an affordable, world-class education while expanding access."

According to the Office of Undergraduate Admissions, the top North Carolina counties for ECU entering freshmen are Wake, Mecklenburg, Pitt, Guilford, and Johnston and Cumberland, the news release said.

The top out-of-state homes for entering freshmen are Virginia, New Jersey, Maryland, New York and Pennsylvania.

ECU's top transfer institutions are Pitt, Wake Technical, Wayne, Craven and Nash community colleges. ECU continues to add new partnerships with surrounding institutions to improve student access and success, including co-admission agreements with 29 community colleges that enable students to seamlessly transition into degree-completion programs.

The survey generated 585 responses and Albemarle Avenue was the public's choice by nine votes, Octigan said.

ARK Consulting did a feasibility study of both sites. The study's probable costs was $3.2 million for Eppes and $2.8 million for Albemarle.

Octigan said Eppes' costs were higher because a tennis court at the location would have to be moved, protective foul ball netting is needed because of the nearby baseball field and retaining walls and ramps might be needed because the property has a slope.

However, the Eppes site was better situated in the community and would be closer to a planned greenway which would make foot and bicycle traffic travel easier, the study determined.

The Albemarle Avenue property is vacant and flat, so no structures or trees would have to be removed. However, the site is better situated for commercial or industrial development, the study found. It's also possible the land could have significant environmental issues.

Octigan said the Eppes Alumni Association supports locating the pool at the recreation center.

"A pool will create a dynamic park with various amenities," Octigan said.

Grant support

The council unanimously approved a resolution supporting an application from HC Composites — doing business and World Cat — for a $500,000 building reuse grant from the North Carolina Department of Commerce.

World Cat announced earlier this month it plans to open a new production facility in the former Camping World Distribution Center on Station Road. The company, which makes outboard power catamarans, plans to invest $9 million in the facility and add 60 jobs.

The resolution said if the grant is awarded, the city and Greenville Utilities Commission will commit to a cash match of 5 percent of the grant amount, up to $25,000.

Incubate to accelerate

Staff presented an overview on a new effort to help small businesses weather the economic turmoil created by COVID-19.

The city's Minority and Women Business Enterprise Program (MWBE), which works to provide minorities and women an opportunity to sell their products and services to the city and GUC, conducted a survey two years ago to find out how the city could better serve small business owners.

The survey's findings and the City Council's desire to aid small businesses led staff to propose an "Incubate to Accelerate" program that will provide businesses with support and increased visibility.

The city is allocating $135,000 to fund three initiatives to help small businesses: a pop-up shop retail space, MWBE Enterprise Fund and back-office support services, said Ferdinand Rouse, MWBE coordinator.

The pop-up shop will help businesses find retail and/or production space. The city will make lease payments on behalf of the business, and the business will pay the city $200 plus 1 percent of its business profits each month.

The goal is to have the business eventually take over the rental responsibility or find a new location, Rouse said.

Two locations have been identified: 415 Evans St., which is currently leased by Art & Sole and has space for more businesses, and 804 W. Fifth St., where the Gold Post Cafe is located. Because the restaurant is open only part-time, Rouse said the kitchen can be used by other food-centered businesses for production.

The MWBE Enterprise Fund will help minority- and women-owned businesses access financing by providing minimum loans of $3,000.

The back office support will involve the city contracting with a local certified public accountant or another support company to provide women- and minority-owned businesses with tax preparation services, business consultation documentation creation and administration and other office support.

To qualify for the programs, businesses must have gross receipts of less than $500,000 or have fewer than 10 employees; must be located in the city or area governed by city planning rules; and must have been in operation for at least three years.

"We want to make sure once we get through COVID-19, the businesses will be in better condition," Rouse said.

The city's legal department is reviewing the lease agreements and then applications will be solicited, Rouse said.

A time to rejoice - A gathering at The Gateway

By Mia Eley
UPI

The citizens and neighbors of Greenville, NC gathered on Tuesday, August 11th to observe the proposed landmark that will monument the site where Sycamore Hill Baptist Church once stood.

Proposedly, Sycamore Hill Gateway Plaza will boast iconic features becoming a prominent western entrance to Town Common.

The new centerpiece will memorialize the history of the African American community in which Sycamore Hill Baptist Church was most significant in the "Downtown" Greenville area.

The downtown community still remembers the architectural beauty of Sycamore Hill Baptist Church before its destruction.

The Green Street Bridge, which previously bordered the western portico of Sycamore Hill Baptist Church, was the primary entrance into the Greenville Central Business District.

The new Sycamore Hill Gateway Plaza is intended to transform the western edge of Town Common into the prominent entrance that it once remained while honoring its history and memory.

Governors push back on Trump's unemployment executive order

By Jean Lotus
UPI

U.S. governors said they can't afford the shared costs in President Donald Trump's $400 weekly unemployment rescue payment passed as an executive order Saturday as part of an emergency coronavirus pandemic package.

California Gov. Gavin Newsom said the state would face a $700 million per week outlay in California that would blow holes in the state budget if state funds were used to pay $100 of the coronavirus pandemic unemployment subsidy.

"The state does not have an identified resource of $700 million per week that we haven't already obliged," Newsom said Monday.

"There is no money sitting in the piggy bank."

Colorado Gov. Jared Polis said the state could pay its quarter-share of the federal unemployment payments for "two or three weeks" and that the state's unemployment trust fund is almost out of money.

The state would have to come up with $30 million per week, the governor said Monday.

Colorado is "still awaiting technical guidance from the US Department of Labor on options for implementation within the states," wrote Cher Remyha Haavind, deputy executive director of the Colorado Department of Labor and Employment.

New York Gov. Andrew Cuomo responded Sunday to the new shared-payment plan calling it "impossible," "laughable" and "just a chapter in the book of Washington COVID mismanagement." Cuomo said the president's proposal could cost the state $4 billion.

"I don't know if the president in genuine in thinking the executive order is a resolution or this is just a tactic in the negotiation, but this is irreconcilable for the state," Cuomo said.

Other governors also said their state budgets could not afford an increase in unemployment claim payouts. Trump at first suggested that states set aside $44 million from the federal CARES Act payments to cover their 25% share, but California has already burned through 75% of their funding and has allocated the rest, Newsom said Monday.

But a U.S. Labor Department spokesman told

California would have to pay $700 million per week to participate in the state cost-share for federal jobless benefits under President Donald Trump's executive orders, Gov. Gavin Newsom said Monday. File Photo by Jim Ruymen/UPI | License Photo the Wall Street Journal Sunday that states "are encouraged, but not required" to pay the $100. Unemployment recipients in those states would just receive a $300 federal payment.

Ohio Gov. Mike DeWine, a Republican, said Monday that his state will not participate in any matching program from the federal government, but will pass through the $300 payment to current unemployment recipients and add $100 from existing state unemployment benefits.

Like in other states, the new program would involve reconfiguring computer software programs that determine the state's jobless benefits, causing even more expense, DeWine spokesman Dan Tierney told the Columbus Dispatch.

Many state governments are waiting to see if Congress can hammer out a second pandemic relief bill on their own, or if Trump's executive orders are declared unconstitutional or stopped by lawsuits.

"My hope is that the president's executive order won't have to be implemented in the end because we can actually get our act together in Congress this week and come up with an agreement," said Sen. Rob Portman, R-Ohio, on Monday.

Air Force helicopter shot at midair, service member injured

By Danielle Haynes
UPI

A military helicopter made an emergency landing Wednesday in Manassas, Va., after it was struck by a bullet, injuring a service member inside, U.S. military officials said.

The UH-1N Huey helicopter was conducting a routine training mission when the incident occurred, a spokesperson from Joint Base Andrews said in a statement.

The bullet caused a minor injury to an aircrew member and damage to the aircraft, which is attached to the 1st Helicopter Squadron. The FBI said the injured service member was treated and released from the hospital.

"The aircraft safely landed and the incident is

Latests black police shooting victim grew up in Winston-Salem

By Cash Michaels
NCBPA

The latest black victim of police brutality to make national headlines - just like George Floyd last May - has strong ties to North Carolina.

Jacob Blake, 29, who was repeatedly shot by two Kenosha, Wisconsin police officers in the back as he tried to enter his SUV Sunday evening, grew up in Winston-Salem as a youth, before moving to Evanston, Illinois to attend middle and high school, the Chicago Sun-Times reported this week.

Three of his children were in the back seat when he was shot.

In an interview with Blake's father, also named Jacob Blake (the grandfather is Rev. Jacob Blake Sr.), the young man was struck eight times in the back by police bullets, and is paralyzed from the waist down.

According to witnesses, young Blake was trying to break up a fight when police arrived at the scene.

A cellphone video shows Blake walking around from the sidewalk to the driver's side of his car where some of his family was.

Two police officers followed Blake around as well.

When he opened the driver's door, one of the officers who followed him grabbed his T-shirt to stop him, then both opened fire at close range. At least seven shots were heard on the video.

As of Monday, Blake's father told the Sun-Times that "...there are eight holes" in his son's body, and doctors had not said whether the paralysis will be permanent.

The older Blake was driving from Charlotte, NC to the hospital in Kenosha to arrive on Tuesday to be with his son.

"I want to put my hand on my son's cheek and kiss him on his forehead, and then I'll be OK," his father said.

"I'll kiss him with my mask. The first thing I want to do is touch my son," he told the Sun-Times.

Young Blake is the father of six children between the ages of six and 13. He had been living in Kenosha for the last three years. He has seven brothers and five sisters.

Blake's grandfather, the Rev. Jacob Blake Sr., was the pastor of Ebenezer African Methodist Episcopal Church. He is credited with leading a fair housing march in Evanston in 1968. Jacob Blake Manor, a low-income housing project for senior citizens, is named after Rev. Blake.

Wisconsin's governor has denounced the shooting, but Kenosha authorities are investigating.

Meanwhile Kenosha has experienced several straight nights of violence and burning of property.

Local leader joins ECC Board of Trustees

Carole White (left), Edgecombe County Clerk of Court, delivers the oath of office to (l-r) Carl Warren, who was reappointed to the Edgecombe Community College Board of Trustees; and Kenny Parker, who is a new board member. Not shown is Wick Baker, who was reappointed to the board.

Tarboro resident William "Kenny" Parker has been appointed to a four-year term on the Edgecombe Community College Board of Trustees.

Appointed to the board by Governor Roy Cooper, Parker holds two ECC degrees: an associate in applied science degree in business administration and an associate in applied science degree in industrial management.

He also attended North Carolina A&T State University. Prior to attending college, he served in the U.S. Army and received numerous recognitions, including the Bronze Star Medal for his service in the Vietnam War.

Following military service and college, Parker worked for many years at Consolidated Diesel, retiring in 2008 as operational business manager. He then worked part time at ECC as a life coach with the minority male mentoring program, where he provided encouragement and assistance to help students successfully complete their studies.

A community leader, he is pastor of St. Mark Missionary Baptist Church in Oak City, chair of the Vidant Community Development Board Tarboro, member of the Vidant Health Foundation and Vidant Medical Center Foundation Board of Trustees, member of the Edgecombe County Human Services Board, co-chair and member of the Edgecombe County Cancer Foundation, chaplain of the Martin County Sheriff's Office, and volunteer with the American Red Cross.

"Mr. Parker will be a strong asset to the college's Board of Trustees," says Dr. Jerry Price, chair of the board.

"His prior work and military experiences along with his work at ECC, in the community, and on local nonprofit boards will be tremendously valuable to the board and to the college as a whole."

In addition to the appointment of Parker, Wick Baker and Carl Warren were reappointed to the ECC Board of Trustees for four-year terms.

Wick Baker is an Edgecombe County Board of Education appointee to the board and retired CEO of Vidant Edgecombe Hospital. He served as chair of the ECC Board of Trustees from 2013 until 2017. He is the current chair of the board's Finance Committee and a member of the Executive Committee.

Carl Warren, a retired executive with Superior Essex, is an Edgecombe County Board of Commissioners appointee to the ECC Board of Trustees. He serves as chair of the board's Buildings and Grounds Committee and as a member of the Executive Committee.

The ECC Board of Trustees has twelve members, each serving a four-year term. The Office of the Governor appoints four members. The Edgecombe County Board of Education and the Edgecombe County Board of Commissioners each appoint four members.

Cooper, lawmakers back before Supreme Court debating powers

BY GARY D. ROBERTSON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH — North Carolina Gov. Roy Cooper sought again Monday the state Supreme Court's help to try to rein in the General Assembly's powers, this time over how federal block grants are spent.

Lawyers for Republican legislative leaders and the Democratic governor returned to the state's highest court — this time virtually due to COVID-19 — for the latest push and pull between the two government branches.

Cooper has sued GOP lawmakers and their allies over several of their actions, including some that occurred mere weeks before he took office. Both sides have won legal victories. The governor filed another lawsuit late last week challenging the composition of a commission that decides whether regulations issued by Cooper's agencies can be implemented.

Monday's arguments centered on $17 million in federal funds within the 2017 state budget law. The details of how the legislature decided in the budget bill to spend those federal dollars, earmarked by Congress for community development, mental health and mother-and-child assistance, differed from how Cooper wanted to use them.

Cooper sued, saying state lawmakers interfered with his duty in the North Carolina Constitution to ensure laws are "faithfully executed," even those made by Congress in directing those funds.

Lawyers for House Speaker Tim Moore and Senate leader Phil Berger disagree, saying legislators had leeway to decide how the money was spent within the block grants' broad categories. And since the money sits in the state treasury, the legislature passes laws on how to spend those funds, attorney Martin Warf told the justices.

A panel of the state Court of Appeals agreed with the Republican lawmakers last December. Cooper attorney Jim Phillips said those judges got it wrong and gave lawmakers authority delegated to the governor.

"The faithful execution is the job of the governor and the executive branch," Phillips said Monday. "There is no room for the General Assembly's involvement."

A cash deposit (no personal checks) of five percent (5%) of the purchase price, or Seven Hundred Fifty Dollars ($750.00), whichever is greater, payable to Bell Carington Price & Gregg, PLLC, will be required at the time of the sale. Following the expiration of the statutory upset bid period, all the remaining amounts are immediately due and owing. Pursuant to N.C. Gen. Stat. § 45-21.30, if the highest bidder at the sale, resale, or any upset bidder fails to comply with his bid upon the tender of a deed for the real property, or after a bona fide attempt to tender such a deed, the clerk of superior court may, upon motion, enter an order authorizing a resale of the real property. The defaulting bidder at any sale or resale or any defaulting upset bidder is liable for the bid made, and in case a resale is held because of such default, shall remain liable to the extent that the final sale price is less than the bid plus all the costs of any resale. Any deposit or compliance bond made by the defaulting bidder shall secure payment of the amount, if any, for which the defaulting bidder remains liable under N.C. Gen. Stat. § 45-21.30. THIRD PARTY PURCHASERS MUST PAY THE EXCISE TAX AND THE RECORDING COSTS FOR THEIR DEED.

Said property to be offered pursuant to this Notice of Sale is being offered for sale, transfer and conveyance "AS IS WHERE IS." This sale is made subject to any and all superior liens, including taxes and special assessments. To the best of the knowledge and belief of the undersigned, the current owner(s) of the property is/are Victoria M. Locke and Michael Locke.

An Order for possession of the property may be issued pursuant to N.C. Gen. Stat. § 45-21.29, in favor of the purchaser and against the party or parties by the clerk of superior court of the county in which the property is sold. Any person who occupies the property pursuant to a rental agreement entered into or renewed on or after October 1, 2007, may, after receiving the notice of sale, terminate the rental agreement by providing written notice of termination to the landlord, to be effective on a date stated in the notice that is at least 10 days, but no more than 90 days, after the sale date contained in the notice of sale, provided that the mortgagee has not cured the default at the time the tenant provides the notice of termination. The notice shall also state that upon termination of a rental agreement, the tenant is liable for rent due under the rental agreement prorated to the effective date of the termination [N.C. Gen. Stat. § 45-21.16(b)(2)]. Upon termination of a rental agreement, the tenant is liable for rent due under the rental agreement prorated to the effective date of the termination.

If the trustee is unable to convey title to this property for any reason, the sole remedy of the purchaser is the return of the deposit. Reasons of such inability to convey include, but are not limited to, the filing of a bankruptcy petition prior to the confirmation of the sale and reinstatement of the loan without the knowledge of the trustee. If the validity of the sale is challenged by any party, the trustee, in their sole discretion, if they believe the challenge to have merit, may request the court to declare the sale to be void and return the deposit. The purchaser will have no further remedy.

CHECK SCAM

NOT ALL CASHIER'S CHECKS ARE LEGITIMATE

They are regularly used in scams because sellers assume they're 100 percent safe.

A TYPICAL SCAM INVOLVES:

Somebody sends you a cashier's check.

They send extra for shipping, or their "plans change". They ask you to send money back to them, or to somebody else.

Your bank assumes the check is valid and allows you to withdraw the funds.

The check eventually comes back as fake.

Your bank reverses the deposit, and you owe your bank money.

*BE AWARE CASHIER'S CHECK SCAM
NOT ALL CASHIER'S CHECKS ARE LEGITIMATE
They are regularly used in scams because sellers assume they're 100 percent safe.

A TYPICAL SCAM INVOLVES:
Somebody sends you a cashier's check.
They send extra for shipping, or their "placeholder". They ask you to send money back to them, or to somebody else.
Your bank assumes the check is valid and allows you to withdraw the funds.
The check eventually comes back as fake.
Your bank reverses the deposit, and you lose your bank money.
